

Start Your Green and Innovative Advertising with Custom Bamboo Pens!

People make use of eco-friendly items more and more often. As a result, the demand for eco solutions in the world of corporate gifts too is in constant growth. Promotional eco-friendly products are progressively more popular at events or as a gift when a product is purchased. In fact, there are eco-friendly versions of almost all the most sought-after corporate gifts. Think about pens, notebooks and keyrings – to name a few. Even the field of technology has approached this trend. Promotional eco-friendly power banks or personalised wooden USB sticks are just two examples. With their rural look, they give a charming retro touch to items which are not natural at all.

Giving away promotional eco-friendly products offers several benefits. Among these, it:

- Helps the environment by using less polluting materials and production techniques.
- Promotes your brand as eco-friendly.
- Allows you to benefit from the high popularity of green objects.
- Takes advantage of the promotional effect of standard corporate gifts.

It is easy to understand why the number of brands that resort to promotional eco-friendly products for their advertising campaigns is growing. Moreover, this trend shows no sign of decreasing in the coming years. On the contrary, the defence of the environment is a major topic and suggests a growing curve. With these premises, it is possible to assert that promotional eco-friendly products are not only a modern corporate gift, but one of the future as well.

Branded Bamboo Pens: The Benefits of Choosing the Green Version of a Common Corporate Gift

Promotional eco-friendly products perform outstandingly in terms of advertising, especially when it comes to quality. They get your brand across as a defender of the environment and as attentive to modern issues. In this way, they make it look more reliable and serious. To make the most of your advertising campaign, however, you need to focus on quantity as well. That is to say, on how often your corporate gifts are used. In order to become part of the life of the recipient, a promotional product must have an essential quality. It should be useful.

If an object comes in handy in different situations of daily life or even many times within a single day, it has a good chance of imprinting the logo in the customer's mind. It will leave a positive memory of the company as well. Not surprisingly, at the top of the list of the most coveted corporate gifts we find items of daily use, such as personalised keyrings. Most of them show a notable versatility too, as in the case of personalised water bottles. Among the promotional products that cannot be missing in the advertising history of a brand, we then find the most classic corporate gift. We are talking about personalised pens.

Think of how often you take a pen in your hands during the day. You will soon understand how much these small writing tools can affect a promotional campaign. Especially if you follow the trend of the moment and choose an eco-friendly version. You could go for personalised wooden pens or custom bamboo pens, for instance. The latter, in particular, have several qualities that can prove to be winning with your audience.

Why Bamboo? What Makes Branded Bamboo Pens so Special

In the selection of promotional eco-friendly products, we come across green materials. These can be roughly divided into three categories:

- Natural materials, such as wood, cotton and paper. Think about how popular printed paper bags are. They replace plastic bags and can be used by shops, supermarkets and by any brand as a package for small and nice gifts.
- Low-polluting materials, such as glass. You can find it in personalised glass bottles.
- Recycled, recyclable or biodegradable materials. Some types of plastic belong to this group, such as ABS and PET.

Bamboo belongs to the first category and can be used like wood. Interestingly, it shares its natural and elegant look, too. Compared to wood, however, it differs for its origin. It is exotic, and it has got into Western production only in recent times. So, in a sense, the use of bamboo in the creation of corporate gifts and objects comes across as innovative. This aspect can arouse the curiosity of many.

For this reason, using custom bamboo pens as an advertising tool can be beneficial also because they look like a novelty in the eyes of those who receive them. This quality is certainly appreciated and can work to the advantage of your promotional products. As they are special, they will be more likely to be used.

Choosing Custom Bamboo Pens for Your Company: A Short and Simple Guide

Although it is a peculiar writing accessory, the promotional bamboo pen is available in different versions. These differ from each other in terms of appearance and functionality. To achieve the highest success, a corporate gift must reflect the style and core business of the brand that gives it away. Its creation begins with the choice of the basic model, which must be consistent with the desired result.

The components of the custom bamboo pen can be made of metal or coloured plastic. If they are black, they will look elegant and create an amazing contrast with the bamboo of the body. Among the models available you will find promotional touch screen pens as well. Of course, they are perfect for shops or brands active in the high-tech sector. However, this is not the only field where they can prove to be appropriate. We have already seen that promotional eco-friendly gadgets enjoy great popularity in the world of corporate gifts. As a consequence, they will be a strong success for any type of brand. Technology has by now become a part of our lives and is still sneaking in at a galloping pace. This trend makes high-tech accessories useful to everyone and excellent as gifts.

You should choose the model based on the final appearance you want to give to your corporate gift. In this way you can create elegant branded bamboo pens for serious and highly professional contexts. Another option is to craft custom bamboo pens with a playful character, to win the heart of your audience with a sparkling idea.

Promotional Bamboo Pens: Elegant Corporate Gifts for Your Advertising Campaign

If you aim at a refined result, you can choose custom bamboo pens with metal or neutral colour finishes. The effect will be very stylish. As a result, it will convey the image of a serious company which focuses on quality. Touch screen pens, too, look professional. They can be used in various contexts and often at work. In any case, regardless of the model selected, customisation will define the final character of your corporate gift.

Besides digital print, engraving can be applied to many custom bamboo pens as well. This technique gives depth to the writing, creating a sophisticated and refined effect. Plus, it does not allow you to reproduce any type of shade. The result will highlight the natural colour of the bamboo and enhance the material. It is not a chance that this technique is often used in the creation of promotional metal pens. These are the most coveted corporate gifts for professional contexts or private studios, as they are extremely delicate.

Commitment to the Environment Meets Playfulness: How to Turn Your Custom Bamboo Pens into Nice Corporate Gifts

Digital printing allows you to apply different colours on your personalised

pens. This is a great chance to turn this small eco-friendly product into a playful and fun accessory. It is an easy and smart way to defend the environment and be cheerful at the same time. This idea is brilliant if you present your brand as friendly and want to convey positive feelings. It can also be a way to get closer to your audience and establish a more intimate relationship with your customers.

Fun and colourful prints, whether they are images or writings, are always perfect for a young audience or for children. A brand that works with kids, a toy store or a school can strengthen the bond with their audience with custom bamboo pens. Moreover, they can convey to the adults of tomorrow the importance of respecting the environment from an early age.

In conclusion, personalised pens never betray the expectations of those who adopt them as promotional products. Plus, the bamboo versions can enrich the image of the brand because they are eco-friendly and highly customisable. Thanks to these qualities, branded bamboo pens can embrace more than one kind of audience. You just have to choose the right model and go on with the personalisation. You will make gifts that are at once green, special and innovative. No doubt they will appeal to anyone!

